

Bangel Lecture in Judaism—Save the Date!

G-d Is A Four-Letter Word: An Evening of Meditation, Music & Meaningful Text Study

With Rabbi David Ingber

The Jewish mystics, like all of the great mystics in every tradition, assert that G-d is not a thing, like other things, not an object like other object, but is more akin to no-thing, or Nothingness. The Kabbalah or Jewish mystical tradition asserts that all definition of the Infinite leads to ignorance.

Join Rabbi David Ingber, Founder and Spiritual Director of NYC's Romemu Community, for an evening of meditation, music and meaningful study of texts and teachings on the interplay between name and nameless, form and formless or...the mystery of finite and infinite.

A transformative evening you won't want to miss!!

Monday, March 16 at 7:30 pm

Freeman Center, Room 201

Christopher Newport U

Reception to follow

Rabbi David Ingber is the Founder and Spiritual Leader of Romemu (romemu.org), a Jewish Spiritual Center in New York City. Named by Newsweek as one of 2013's top 50 most influential rabbis in the United States as well as by The Forward as one of the 50 most newsworthy and notable Jews in America, Rabbi David promotes a renewed Jewish mysticism that integrates meditative mindfulness and physical awareness into mainstream, post-modern Judaism. A major 21st Century Jewish thinker and educator, his rich perspective, open heart and mind, and full-bodied approach to Jewish learning has brought him to speak throughout the United States and worldwide throughout Canada, Europe and Israel.

For more information, contact Professor Graham Schweig or Professor Roberta Rosenberg